

Understanding and serving evolving forest ownership objectives - A dialogue between research and practice

Gun Lidestav & Svarte Swartling

FINAL CONFERENCE of the COST Action FP120 FACESMAP
1-9 September BOKU, Vienna

Living on farm and forest estate		Living outside the farm/forest, most likely in urban setting
Jointly owned by the couple		Individually owned
Inherited from parents To be transferred to child(ren)		Bought at the market . May be sold to non-relatives
Depend on the income/cash flow from the forest		Not economic dependent on annual income, but regarded as an investment
Combining agricultural farming with forestry		Combining the forest ownership with off-farm employment
Self-employed in farming/forestry		Hire contractors for the forest operations
Active management for timber		Recreational use is prioritized

551 m

Living on farm and forest estate		Living outside the farm/forest, most likely in urban setting
Jointly owned by the couple		Individually owned
Inherited from parents To be transferred to child(ren)		Bought at the market . May be sold to non-relatives
Depend on the income/cash flow from the forest		Not economic dependent on annual income, but regarded as an investment
Combining agricultural farming with forestry		Combining the forest ownership with off-farm employment
Self-employed in farming/forestry		Hire contractors for the forest operations
Active management for timber		Recreational use is prioritized

THE SVARTE SWARTLING “TYPE”

Living on farm and forest estate 		Living outside the farm/forest, most likely in urban setting
Jointly owned by the couple		Individually owned
Inherited from parents  To be transferred to child(ren)		Bought at the market . May be sold to non-relatives
Depend on the income/cash flow from the forest 		Not economic dependent on annual income, but regarded as an investment
Combining forestry with .. 		Combining the forest ownership with off-farm employment
Self-employed in farming/forestry 		Hire contractors for the forest operations
Active management for timber 		Recreational use is prioritized 